Description

Nothing in this code shall be construed to prevent, or exclude from the public schools, references to religion or references to or the use of religious literature, dance, music, theatre, and visual arts or other things having a religious significance when such references or uses do not constitute instruction in religious principles or aid to any religious sect, church, creed, or sectarian purpose and when such references or uses are incidental to or illustrative of matters properly included in the course of study. *(operative April 30, 1977. CHAPTER 1 School Safety – Public and Private Institutions, Article 6 SECTION 32060, Legislative findings, declarations, and intent, Toxic art supplies in schools

Description

(a) The Legislature finds and declares that art supplies which contain toxic substances or which are potential human carcinogens pose a significant danger to the health and safety of school children. The Legislature also finds and declares that school children are not sufficiently protected by present health laws in so far as materials which may be seriously harmful are not so labeled and therefore children are not properly warned as to the dangers inherent in the use of those materials.

(b) The Legislature intends by this article to ensure that elementary school children are protected by prohibiting the sale of these toxic substances to schools, school districts, and private schools for use in kindergarten and grades 1 to 6, inclusive, and that the toxic substances may be purchased by schools, school districts, and private schools for students in grades 7-12, inclusive, only if the materials are properly labeled, as described in Section 32064. (operative June 1, 1987)

CHAPTER 2 Governing Boards, Article 13 Excursions and Field Trips, SECTION 35330, Excursions and field trips

Description

The governing board of any school district or the county superintendent of schools of any county may:

(a) Conduct field trips or excursions in connection with courses of instruction or school-related social, educational, cultural, athletic, or school band activities to and from places in the state, any other state, the District of Columbia, or a foreign country for pupils enrolled in elementary or secondary schools. A field trip or excursion to and from a foreign country may be permitted to familiarize students with the language, history, geography, natural sciences, and other studies relative to the district’s course of study for such pupils.

(b) Engage such instructors, supervisors, and other personnel as desire to contribute their services over and above the normal period for which they are employed by the district, if necessary, and provide equipment and supplies for such field trip or excursion.

(c) Transport by use of district equipment, contract to provide transportation, or arrange transportation by the use of other equipment, of pupils, instructors, supervisors, or other personnel to and from places in the state, any other state, the District of Columbia, or a foreign country where such excursions and field trips are being conducted; provided that, when district equipment is used, the governing board shall secure liability insurance, and if travel is to and from a foreign country, such liability insurance shall be secured from a carrier licensed to transact insurance business in such foreign country.
(d) Provide supervision of pupils involved in field trips or excursions by certificated employees of the district.

No pupil shall be prevented from making the field trip or excursion because of lack of sufficient funds. To this end, the governing board shall coordinate efforts of community service groups to supply funds for pupils in need of them.

No group shall be authorized to take a field trip or excursion authorized by this section if any pupil who is a member of such an identifiable group will be excluded from participation in the field trip or excursion because of lack of sufficient funds.

No expenses of pupils participating in a field trip or excursion to any other state, the District of Columbia, or a foreign country authorized by this section shall be paid with school district funds. Expenses of instructors, chaperones, and other personnel participating in a field trip or excursion authorized by this section may be paid from school district funds, and the school district may pay from school district funds all incidental expenses for the use of school district equipment during a field trip or excursion authorized by this section.

The attendance or participation of a pupil in a field trip or excursion authorized by this section shall be considered attendance for the purpose of crediting attendance for apportionments from the State School Fund in the fiscal year. Credited attendance resulting from such field trip or excursion shall be limited to the amount of attendance which would have accrued had the students not been engaged in the field trip or excursion.

Credited attendance shall not exceed 10 school days except in the case of pupils participating in a field trip or excursion in connection with courses of instruction, or school-related educational activities, and which are not social, cultural, athletic, or school band activities. (operative April 30, 1977)

Education Code

Elementary and Secondary Education, Local Administration, CHAPTER 4 Miscellaneous Provisions, Article 1 SECTION 38120, Use of school band equipment on excursions to foreign countries

Description

The governing board of any school district may lend school band instruments, music, uniforms, and other regalia to persons who are or have been, during the prior school year, members of the school band for use by them on excursions to foreign countries whether or not such an excursion is sanctioned by the governing board.

The governing board may require the borrower to make a deposit or take other measures to insure that the items borrowed will be returned in usable condition. (operative Jan. 1, 1998)
Appendix B: University of California and California State University Admission Requirements

University of California: F Visual and Performing Arts Requirement

The University of California (UC) has established A-G subject areas admission requirements. The F Visual and Performing Arts requirement consists of one year of college-preparatory visual and performing arts in one of the following disciplines: dance, music, theatre, visual arts, or interdisciplinary arts.

For additional UC admission requirement information visit the UC Subject Requirement page (https://www.cde.ca.gov/ci/vp.cf/ch11.asp#link1).

Additional information and guidance for teachers and district office administrators on managing and submitting F courses can be found on the University of California website at its F: Visual and Performing Arts page (https://www.cde.ca.gov/ci/vp.cf/ch11.asp#link2).

California State University: F Visual and Performing Arts Requirement

For admission as a first-time freshman into the California State University (CSU) system requires a minimum of a 15-unit pattern of courses called the “A-G” courses. The F area requires one year in Visual and Performing Arts (dance, drama or theatre, music, or visual arts). Courses that are approved the University of California system as a A-G course are accepted by the California State University system.

For additional CSU admission requirement information visit its Freshman: Admission Requirements page (https://www.cde.ca.gov/ci/vp.cf/ch11.asp#link3).
Appendix C: California Content Literacy for Technical Subjects: The Arts

Developing literacy is a shared responsibility that requires all content areas provide instruction that supports students’ literacy development. The California Common Core State Standards for English Language Arts and Literacy in History/Social Studies, Science, and Technical Subjects (CA CCSS for ELA/Literacy), combined with the California Arts Standards, provide guidance and expectations for literacy development in the arts.

Note: In the California Common Core State Standards for English Language Arts and Literacy in History/Social Studies, Science, and Technical Subjects, the arts are considered a technical subject.

Literacy in the arts includes the skills and capacities to read, write, and communicate effectively within linguistic language as well as read, write, and communicate effectively using the unique language and symbols of the arts discipline. Arts educators use expanded notions of text, reading, and writing to support students developing as artistically literate individuals.

Students Who Are College and Career Ready

The descriptions provided in the California Common Core State Standards: English Language Arts and Literacy in History/Social Studies, Science, and Technical Subjects offer a portrait of students who meet the standards. The document notes: “As students advance through the grades and master the standards in reading, writing, speaking and listening, and language, they exhibit, with increasing fullness and regularity, the following capabilities of the literate individual” (California Department of Education 2013, 6).

They demonstrate independence.

Students can, without significant scaffolding, comprehend and evaluate complex texts across a range of types and disciplines, and they can construct effective arguments and convey intricate or multifaceted information. Likewise, students are independently able to discern a speaker’s key points, request clarification, and ask relevant questions. They build on others’ ideas, articulate their own ideas, and confirm they have been understood. Without prompting, they demonstrate command of standard English and acquire and use a wide-ranging vocabulary. More broadly, they become self-directed learners, effectively seeking out and using resources to assist them, including teachers, peers, and print and digital reference materials.

They build strong content knowledge.

Students establish a base of knowledge across a wide range of subject matter by engaging with works of quality and substance. They become proficient in new areas through research and study. They read purposefully and listen attentively to gain both general knowledge and discipline-specific expertise. They refine and share their knowledge through writing and speaking.

They respond to the varying demands of audience, task, purpose, and discipline.

Students adapt their communication in relation to audience, task, purpose, and discipline. They set and adjust purpose for reading, writing, speaking, listening, and language use as warranted by the task. They appreciate nuances, such as how the composition of an audience should affect tone when speaking and how the connotations of words affect meaning. They also know that different disciplines call for different types of evidence (e.g., documentary evidence in history, experimental evidence in science).

They comprehend as well as critique.

Students are engaged and open-minded—but discerning—readers and listeners. They work diligently to understand precisely what an author or speaker is saying, but they also question an author’s or speaker’s assumptions and premises and assess the veracity of claims and the soundness of reasoning.

They value evidence.

Students cite specific evidence when offering an oral or written interpretation of a text. They use relevant evidence when supporting their own points in writing and speaking, making their reasoning clear to the reader or listener, and they constructively evaluate others’ use of evidence.

They use technology and digital media strategically and capably.

Students employ technology thoughtfully to enhance their reading, writing, speaking, listening, and language use. They tailor their searches online to acquire useful information efficiently, and they integrate what they learn through technology with what they learn offline. They are familiar with the strengths and limitations of various technological tools and media and can select and use those best suited to their communication goals.

They come to understand other perspectives and cultures.

Students appreciate that the twenty-first-century classroom and workplace are settings in which people from often widely divergent cultures and who represent diverse experiences and perspectives must learn and work together. Students actively seek to understand other perspectives and cultures through reading and listening, and they are able to communicate effectively with people of varied backgrounds. They evaluate other points of view critically and constructively. Through reading great classic and contemporary works of literature representative of a variety of periods, cultures, and worldviews, students can vicariously inhabit worlds and have experiences much different from their own.
Implementation of the CA CCSS Content Literacy Standards for Technical Subjects

The CA CCSS for ELA/Literacy call for a shared responsibility to integrate content, language, and literacy and to assess student progress and provide tailored instruction so that all students achieve. The CA CCSS for ELA/Literacy also call for increased rigor of thought and complexity of text; an intertwining of curriculum, instruction, and assessment. Teachers must provide rich instruction that skillfully combines related standards, inquiry-based learning, research, analysis of text and media, and using textual evidence and effective arguments in writing. Through this instruction, students develop “the ability to gather, comprehend, evaluate, synthesize, and report on information and ideas, to conduct original research in order to answer questions or solve problems, and to analyze and create a high volume and extensive range of print and nonprint texts in media forms old and new” (California Department of Education 2013).

Figure 11.1 illustrates how teachers can implement the standards. The outer ring of the figure represents the goals of Literacy and English Language Development (ELD) programs for all students. The next closest ring to the center identifies context characteristics of high-quality instruction for all students as called for by the CA CCSS Literacy and other content standards. At the center and core of the figure, are the CA CCSS for Literacy and the key themes they embody: Meaning Making, Language Development, Effective Expression, Content Knowledge, and Foundational Skills (California Department of Education 2015).

Appendix D: California Arts Framework Assessment Terminology

The following list is intended to define select assessment terms found in the California Arts Framework. The short definitions are related to the term’s contextual use in the Framework. The definitions are not meant to be an exhaustive list or used as curriculum.

Definitions

analytic rubric
See rubric.

assessment
Assessment is the process of collecting and analyzing data for the purpose of measuring and evaluating achievement. Assessment involves describing, collecting, recording, scoring, and interpreting a student’s demonstration of learning. A complete assessment of student learning should include developmentally appropriate multiple measures. Assessment processes are usually classified by how the data are used; either formative, diagnostic, benchmark or interim, and summative.

assessment as learning
Assessment as learning occurs when students self-assess their understanding, learning, and achievement. Students monitor their own learning, ask questions, and use a range of strategies to decide what they know and can do, and how to use assessment results to guide new learning.

authentic assessment
Authentic assessments emulate the thinking, actions, process, products, and behaviors that would be required of the student in real-life situations.

cornerstone assessment
Cornerstone assessments are curriculum-embedded assessment tasks that are intended to engage students in applying their knowledge and skills in an authentic context. These tasks are described as

- curriculum embedded (as opposed to externally imposed);
- recurring across the grades, becoming increasingly sophisticated over time;
- establishing authentic contexts for performance;
- calling for understanding and transfer via genuine performance;
- used as rich learning activities or assessments;
- integrating twenty-first century skills (e.g., critical thinking, technology use, teamwork) with subject area content;
- evaluating performance with established rubrics;
- engaging students in meaningful learning while encouraging the best teaching; and
- providing content for student portfolios so that students graduate with a résumé of demonstrated accomplishments rather than simply a transcript of courses taken. (Jay McTighe, as cited in National Core Arts Standards: A Conceptual Framework for Arts Learning [NCCAS 2014])

criteria

Criteria are the traits, attributes, or guidelines used for categorizing or judging; in arts assessment, the guidelines used to judge or determine the quality of a student’s demonstration of learning.

critique

Critique is a process that can be used to evaluate a technique or practice in a detailed and analytical way.

diagnostic assessment

Diagnostic assessment is a form of pre-assessment that allows a teacher to determine students’ individual strengths, weaknesses, knowledge, and skills prior to instruction. It is primarily used to anticipate potential learning challenges. Diagnostic data is used to guide lesson and curriculum planning.

evaluation

Evaluation is a judgment about the worth or quality of something. In education, data from assessments, tasks, and/or performances are used to make judgments about the achievement of the student or success of the program.

extended written response

Extended written response (also known as an essay) is a type of assessment where the answer is constructed in response to a question or task rather than selected from a list.
formative assessment

(Sometimes referred to as “assessment for learning”)

Formative assessment is a process used by teachers and students during instruction. It provides feedback that can be used to adjust ongoing teaching and learning to improve students’ achievement of intended instructional outcomes. Formative assessments are short interval and usually classroom based and provide immediate information for teachers and students. The results are used to inform the instructional process and determine what comes next in the learning process.

generalized (general) rubric

See rubric.

grading

Grading is a rating system for evaluating student work; grades are usually letters or numbers, and their meaning varies widely across teachers, subjects, and systems.

holistic rubric

See rubric.

performance assessment

Assessment is a task/event/performance designed to measure a student’s ability to directly demonstrate particular knowledge and skills. For example, a student may be asked to demonstrate some physical or artistic achievement: play a musical instrument, create or critique a work of art, or improvise a dance or a scene. These kinds of assessments (e.g., tasks, projects, portfolios) are scored using rubrics: established criteria for acceptable performance.

Portfolios are a purposeful collection of student work across time which exhibits a student’s efforts, progress, or level of proficiency. Some types include project, growth, achievement, competence, and celebration portfolios.
rubric

A rubric is an established, ordered set of criteria for judging student performance/products; it includes performance descriptors of student work at various levels of achievement.

analytic rubric

An analytic rubric is a method of scoring performance assessments that yields multiple scores for the same task/performance. The performance task is separated into major components, traits, or dimensions and each is independently scored. Analytic scoring is especially effective as a diagnostic tool.

generalized (general) rubric

A generalized or general rubric contains criteria that are general across tasks. A teacher can reuse these for different tasks but the feedback from general rubrics may not be very specific.

holistic rubric

A holistic rubric is a scoring tool which is used to determine a single score based on an overall appraisal or impression of performance rather than analyzing the various dimensions separately. A holistic scoring rubric can be specifically linked to focused (written) or implied (general impression) criteria. Some forms of holistic assessment do not use written criteria at all but rely solely on anchor papers for training of assessors and in scoring of student work.

task-specific rubric

A task-specific rubric is unique to a specific task. A task-specific rubric is a reliable assessment of performance on a specific assessment task.

selected response

Selected response is a type of assessment/test item which asks students to select the best or correct answer from a list of options (multiple choice, etc.) or indicate the truth or falsity of a statement.

summative assessment

(Sometimes referred to as “assessment of learning”)

Summative assessment is a process of measurement used to synopsize or to capture student learning at a particular point in time such as the end of a chapter, unit, grading period, semester, year, or end of course.
task-specific rubric

See rubric.

Appendix E: Safety Information and Resources

The following list provides arts classroom safety information and resources. Additionally, the Opportunities to Learn Standards (see appendix I) contain information on safety considerations.

Art Hazards Program

The California Department of Education provides guidance on ensuring safe and healthy arts materials. A list of art materials that should not be purchased is found on the California Office of Environmental Health Hazard Assessment (OEHHA) Art Hazards page (https://www.cde.ca.gov/ci/vp/cf/ch11.asp#link9). As it says on that page:

The California Education Code Section 32064 prohibits schools from ordering or purchasing any product that contains toxic or carcinogenic substances for use in grades K–6. The law also restricts the purchase of such products in grades 7–12, allowing the use only if the product bears a label informing the user of the presence of hazardous ingredients, the potential health effects, and instructions for the safe use. This restriction applies whether or not the product is included on the list of unacceptable art and crafts supplies.

Section 32066 of the Education Code requires that OEHHA develop a list of art and crafts materials “which cannot be purchased or ordered” for use in kindergarten or grades one through six.

Accordingly, we are providing you with a list of unacceptable products—those which “cannot be purchased” for use in kindergarten through sixth grade. The products are those listed among the Arts and Creative Materials Institute’s (ACMI) determinations of products that require a “Caution Label,” dated June 1, 2018. Additionally, we include products that have been recalled as reported by the US Consumer Product Safety Commission.

For more information, you can refer to the guidelines that OEHHA has developed for the purchasing and safe use of art and craft materials in schools, along with a fact sheet with quick tips for the safe use of art and craft materials. Long Descriptions of Graphics for Appendices

The outer ring identifies the overarching goals of ELA/literacy and ELD instruction. By the time California’s students complete high school, they have developed the readiness for college, careers, and civic life; attained the capacities of literate individuals; become broadly literate; and acquired the skills for living and learning in the twenty-first century. The white field represents the context in which instruction occurs. The ELA/ELD Framework asserts that the context for learning should be integrated, motivating, engaging, respectful, and intellectually challenging for all students.

Circling the standards are the key themes of the standards: Meaning Making, Language Development, Effective Expression, Content Knowledge, and Foundational Skills. These themes highlight the interconnections among the strands of CA CCSS for ELA/Literacy (Reading, Writing, Speaking and Listening, and Language) and the parts of the CA ELD Standards (“Interacting in Meaningful Ways,” “Learning About How English Works,” and “Using Foundational Skills”). The themes are organizing components for the grade-level discussions.

In the center of the graphic are the CA CCSS for ELA/Literacy and the CA ELD Standards, which define year-end expectations for student knowledge and abilities and guide instructional planning and observation of student progress. The CA ELD Standards also identify proficiency level expectations (Emerging, Expanding, and Bridging) and ensure that students who are English learners have full access to the CA CCSS for ELA/Literacy and other content standards. These standards are the pathway to achievement of the overarching goals. Return to Figure 11.1
